

Shareholder's homophobic comment gave rise to a discrimination claim

A shareholder of a Romanian football club commented to a journalist that he would prefer to close the football club than hire a homosexual player, in response to the suggestion that a player who was due to transfer to the club was homosexual.