

Employee working remotely from Australia protected against unfair dismissal in English courts

An employee of a British company working remotely from Australia could bring a claim in the UK for victimisation for whistleblowing and unfair dismissal.

Department for Work and Pensions Guidance published on new Fit for Work Service

The Department for Work and Pensions has published guidance notes in relation to the new Fit for Work service which was launched in December 2014.